Summer 2018

President's Message It is the continuing objective of The SPUR to foster and preserve the Spirit of the New Jersey Cavalry and Armor Association, and to promote and enhance the friendships and camaraderie of our members, who are mutually bound by service and devotion to our country.

The "friendships and camaraderie" bind us together, through our service, devotion to our country, and now by sharing the past, present, and future through our membership and participation in our Association. We represent multiple generations of service in our Squadron, or the U.S. Armed Forces, and share in the freedom that we cherish and took an oath to defend.

We are constantly facing the past, the present, and the future. Our past, the Heritage Room Committee has been working diligently every Wednesday. They cleaned out the Heritage Room, removed all the old paneling, installed and painted new sheetrock, and are now reestablishing our historic displays and artifacts. Recently, Fred Rodman, brother of Walter I. Rodman, who served in F Company, 102nd Reconnaissance Squadron in World War II is organizing historical artifacts to contribute to the Heritage Room. The Heritage Room is taking an entirely new format, which shares the Squadron's past and current service. When you enter into the Heritage Room you are immediately exposed to a work in progress that will take you on a tour of our Squadron's history.

Our present, we have forged a bond with our Squadron Troopers, who are currently preparing for training, by echelons, in the next several months, culminating in Annual Training in August, when the Squadron will certify their Mission Essential Task List and Mobilization Tasks, and then proceed on a mobilization timeline. At the tip of the spear, guarding our freedom and liberty by keeping the enemy at the gates.

Our future, at the 8 June 2018 meeting, we will be recognizing awardees, 2LT Kieran Miller is being awarded the Colonel Harold J. Samsel Junior Officer of The Year Award, and SSG David Sutton is being awarded the First Sergeant William Maloney Trooper of The Year Award, for excellence in their performance and potential for the future. They will be able to prove their mettle in the upcoming deployment to Jordan and Horn of Africa. General Milley, the Army Chief of Staff, and Dr. Mark T. Esper, Secretary of The Army, have just presented a new Vision for the Army. It addresses many of the challenges the future holds in defeating a world class adversary, and will need agile, experienced, and insightful leaders. They are standing up a Futures Command, which will be comprised of eight Cross Functional Teams (CFT) to address the acquisition and modernization of the Army with its best and brightest leaders, engineers, and scientists. As I had described in my Winter 2016 article about the Russian New Generation Warfare, our Army will need to address what is expected and not what is currently practiced. The development of doctrine and equipment by our potential adversaries will be met by our updated modern Army.

This is who we are, where we came from, we served together at some point and met many great Troopers and Soldiers, and this camaraderie is who we have become. May we always stay in touch, and be remembered as having served in the defense of our great nation's freedoms.

Next Meeting: 2000 hrs. Heritage Room, Armory 500 Rahway Avenue, Westfield, New Jersey 14 September 2018; Future Meetings: 9 November 2018; 8 February 2019; 12 April 2019; 14 June 2019 (Flag Day).

Squadron Commander's Message The Squadron recently completed our Annual Training at Joint Base McGuire Dix Lakehurst, the last annual training that will focus on our Cavalry tasks prior to our 2019 deployment. As expected the Squadron accomplished all assigned tasks and safely returned to home station. A and B Troops focused on both mounted and dismounted maneuver and successfully qualified all available crews on Table VI for the gunnery portion of the training. Our FSC (D Co) has made great strides and is leading the support elements of the BCT in gunnery qualifying their crews on both the M240 and M2A1 as well as completing Table VI for select crews. HHT managed the CP and the XO led the staff in refining SQDN SOPs and in improving our tracking processes. In addition our Medics provided around the clock support and coordinated for the incorporation of realistic CAS/MEDEVAC training during the training to include several iterations of AEROMEDEVAC with support from the 1-150th (Blackhawk). In preparation for the C Troop deployment to Somalia and to meet mission manning requirements we have attached a platoon each from A and B Troops to C Troop for their mission. At the beginning of the training period we conducted a change of command ceremony for C Troop. CPT Aaron Tomasini relinquished command and passed the guidon to 1LT London Nagai who will lead C Troop during their deployment to Somalia. London has recently returned from a deployment to the Sinai peninsula, augmenting the 1-181 IN of the 44th IBCT during their MFO rotation. He brings a wealth of recent and relevant experience to the soldiers of C Troop. Our focus in the coming months will be the reception of the approximately 50 soldiers from the 3-112th FA who will join the main body deploying to Jordan. As we continue to refine mission requirements it is imperative that we focus on our personnel readiness and retention. We need every Trooper in our formation to stay healthy and fit for deployment. To that end we are conducting another periodic health assessment (PHA) during our July IDT. This will be the second of three PHAs the Squadron will conduct prior to our deployment. Several of the SQDN staff and myself were able to conduct another site visit to Fort Bliss, TX during the AT period where we were able to observe the Mission Readiness Exercise (MRX) of the 18th CAV (the unit we will relieve when we deploy). In addition the S3 (Operations Officer) from the 1-184 IN (currently on ground in Jordan) was on site to assist with the MRX and provide lessons learned to both the 18th CAV and our team. It is a challenging and dynamic mission that will require our soldiers to work with our Jordanian partners on a daily basis. The OPTEMPO for the SQDN continues to be high as we continue to prepare for our upcoming missions. I appreciate everyone's continued support for the Squadron.

LTC Dennis Stiles, 102nd Squadron Commander, shared a story about 2LT Miller. The Squadron was participating in a Command Post Exercise (CPX), where the Tactical Operations Center (TOC) was in a terrible position, where it could not acquire communication with other units. LTC Stiles was concerned and warned his staff that if the situation continues, then they'll have to jump the TOC. 2LT Miller became involved in the communications, and he got the team together and the TOC was jumped in about 6-8 hours. Only later, he found out that 2LT Miller hadn't even completed his basic course at the time. Additionally, LTC Stiles updated the current training for deployment. The deployment comprises two efforts: 1. Troops A, B, and HHT, will deploy to Jordan in support of Operation Spartan Shield, to train their Border Patrol (Jordan has borders with Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Syria and Israel), two battalions at a time with mounted Cavalry Troops, with plus up from 3-112th FA Battalion. They are starting their first Annual Training, comprising gunnery and then phased Mobilization directed tasks, and will have another Annual Training period in January; and 2. C Troop deploying Somalia, within AFRICOM, with a new commander, taking over from CPT Tomassini, who is a Ranger qualified infantry officer, and will be working for 2-113th Infantry Battalion, LTC Karcher, which will have a great reach-back capability. Currently, the Squadron is concentrating on the DMD (Deployment Manning Document), which specifies the manning required to support their respective missions. Their Annual Training, will have C Troop personnel cross-leveled from the Squadron, and METL (Mission Essential Task List) and Mobilization tasks will be trained and validated, and then starting in September they will be following their respective Mobilization Timelines. Next, LTC Hrycak reminded members that elections will be conducted at the next meeting, 14 September 2018. It was determined that no vote was needed to allow the Heritage Room Committee to proceed. Russia's New Generation Warfare – Lessons Learned – Russo-Ukrainian War

Dr. Phillip A. Karber, of the Potomac Foundation, and LTC Joshua Thibeault, an operations research systems analyst and member of Training and Doctrine Command's Russian New Generation Warfare Study Team, published an interesting article that gives insight into Russia's development and implementation of a New Generation Warfare in Ukraine, in the June, 2016, issue of Army magazine, <https://www.ansa.org/articles/russia%E2%80%99s-new-generation-warfare>. It is important to study the development of Russia's new weapons and tactics to keep our Army, and our allies, as well as NATO, ready to confront this threat.

There are five component elements: 1. Political Subversion- inserting "agitprop" agents that manipulate mass media through Information Operations using ethnic-linguistic class differences, etc... 2. Proxy Sanctuary – seizing key government facilities, police stations, military depots, and airports, arming and training insurgents who destroy ingress transportation infrastructure, create phony one-party referendums, cyberattacks to compromise victim communications, thereby creating "people's republics" under Russian tutelage, 3. Intervention – deploying large scale Russian forces to engage in large scale military exercises along its border, "introduction of heavy weapons to insurgents; creation of training and logistics camps adjacent to the border; commitment of so-called volunteer combined-arms battalion tactical groups; integration of proxy troops into higher-level formations that are equipped, supported and led by Russians.", 4. Coercive Deterrence – secret strategic force alerts, with "snap checks", forward deployment and exercises of tactical and theater nuclear weapons, aggressive air patrolling in neighboring areas to discourage other state involvement, 5. Negotiated Manipulation – using and abusing Western-negotiated ceasefires to reset and rearm their forces while bleeding opposing army white and using fear of escalation to inhibit other nation involvement and assistance.

Dr. Karber had prepared an in-depth paper "Lessons Learned" from The Russo-Ukrainian War – Personal Observations' 6 July 2015 for a Historical Lessons Learned Workshop sponsored by Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory and U.S. Army Capabilities Center (ARCIC) based upon 15 separate trips to Ukraine from March, 2014, through June, 2015 (when he was wounded during an MLRS (Multiple Launch Rocket System) attack at Lebedyn's'ky and had to discontinue his trips). Unfortunately never published (I have an electronic copy to share), it urged a military dialogue to observe and understand the Russian "New Generation Warfare" as it was being implemented in eastern Ukraine, the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of the Minsk I and II Ceasefires, assess the current and future capabilities of the Ukrainian Army, most importantly to create an understanding and develop capabilities for U.S. and NATO forces to counter, neutralize, and defeat the Russian Warfare by gaining an insight and understanding into its Tactics, Techniques and Procedures (TTP's).

I can only share a few examples of Dr. Karber and LTC Thibeault's observations and recommendations. Electronic Warfare is the centerpiece of the Russian effort, to deny communications (there are areas in the Donbas region where no electromagnetic communications are possible), defeat Unmanned Aerial Systems (which are relied upon to a very large extent not just for reconnaissance and surveillance, but also targeting and even bombing), defeating artillery and mortars, and targeting command and control nodes. They urge our forces to go back to being proficient on analog systems, remove all unnecessary electromagnetic emitters, and "a day without radios and computers" during training missions, as well as develop organic Electronic Warfare (EW) systems. Unmanned Aerial Systems are being used in large numbers on both sides, with their limited radar cross-section and ability to appear on target with little to no warning, they have been used very effectively for immediate and mass suppression or mechanized and light units, citing one battle in July, 2014, where two Ukrainian mechanized battalions suffered mass casualties (over 30%) in minutes (together with massed artillery, rockets, top-attack munitions and thermobaric rounds). New weapons are being employed to defeat UAV's, but need to be deployed down to company and platoon level. Our forces need to emphasize cover concealment, and deception (yes, just like the Cold War), in addition to using these new UAV defeating weapons and tactics.

Of grave and immediate note: "Russia employs a combination of dual-purpose improved conventional munitions, scatterable mines, top-attack munitions and thermobaric warheads that have catastrophic consequences when used in preplanned, massed fire strikes. The U.S. has removed all of these warheads from its inventory." (Army article) This would require U.S., NATO, and allied development and intervention (including the repeal of Secretary of Defense Gates directive for U.S. forces to comply with the 2008 Ottawa Treaty) to reverse the sliding-back to the dark ages nature of Russian development of weapons and ammunition that a decade ago all major powers agreed was a relic of the Cold War and needed to be demilitarized and relegated to museums.

As a final example, in early August, 2014, Ukrainian Colonel Mikhail Zubrowski (presently LTG), a Fort Leavenworth Command and General Staff College graduate, organized his 95th Air Assault Brigade, and planned and executed the "largest and longest armored raid behind military lines in recorded military history" (Dr. Karber, Lessons Learned, pg. 35), modeled after JEB Stuart's raid of the rear of McClellan's forces during the Civil War Peninsula Campaign, by employing combined-arms company teams along parallel axes of advance, penetrating the enemy's defenses, splitting the two People's Republics in half, and then clearing out 200 Kilometers of the infiltration area along the southern Donbas, including relieving the beleaguered 25th Airborne Brigade, overrunning and capturing and destroying Russian tanks and artillery, and finally returning to the starting area near Sloviansk (moving and unprecedented 450 Km, mostly behind enemy lines). This demoralized the Russian and proxy forces, but relieved several trapped Ukrainian garrisons. Unfortunately, this spurred a heavy-handed counterattack by Russian Battalion Tactical Groups toward the end of August, 2014, resulting in the Battle of Ilovaik, and creation of a new Western Front toward Mariupol (to attempt a land bridge to Crimea). The Ukrainian forces were in a large part surrounded, and massed fires decimated two mechanized battalions in a matter of minutes, giving Putin a chance to force Ukraine's President Poroshenko to accept the first Minsk ceasefire agreement, which included the right of safe passage, which the Russian, and proxy, forces reneged on, massing fires and killing retreating Ukrainians, and capturing and torturing Prisoners of War (POW).

Thus, we have the harbinger of Russian-developed New Generation Warfare being employed and developed in eastern Ukraine. Although the media has ignored the Russo-Ukrainian War, the military has not, and cannot. U.S. and other armies have been training and preparing Ukrainian forces to continue to fight and counter the Russian invasion. But it is up to us, both those currently serving, as well as those that are now retired as spectators, to keep our leadership sighted in to what really matters. Russia has already showed the world what it can and will do in Chechnya and Georgia, and currently Syria as well, and our country's leadership needs to study and develop our fighting forces to counter and defeat them, and all those who want to follow them. -Contributed by Our President LTC(Ret.)Michael Hrycak

C Troop Change of Command Squadron Commander LTC Dennis S. Stiles passed the Cavalry Guidon from Captain Aaron Tomasini to First Lieutenant London Nagai, signifying the Change of Troop Command for Troop C, also known as Commanche Troop, 1-102nd Cavalry, Hackettstown NJ. Anniversary of the September 11th 2001, Terrorist Attacks

In the days following the attacks of September 11th 2001, the New Jersey Cavalry, then the 5-117th, the Divisional Cavalry of the 42nd Infantry Division (Mechanized), deployed on an array of missions that would mark the beginning of the emerging Global War on Terrorism. Atomic Power Plant Security, Airfield Security, Base Defense and Bridge and Tunnel Security Operations were part of the Squadron's contribution to the large domestic deployment of National Guard Forces. Relevant Photos and Memorabilia of these deployments are on record at The National Guard Militia Museum of New Jersey, Lawrenceville Annex 151 Eggerts Crossing Rd. “CAVALRY CROSSING A FORD”

A LINE in long array where they wind betwixt green islands,
They take a serpentine course, their arms flash in the sun—hark
to the musical clank, Behold the silvery river, in it the splashing horses loitering stop to drink,
Behold the brown-faced men, each group, each person a picture,
the negligent rest on the saddles,
Some emerge on the opposite bank, others are just entering the ford—while,
Scarlet and blue and snowy white,
The guidon flags flutter gayly in the wind

-Walt Whitman

“The Eyes of The Army” Depicted is a kneeling Indian Scout reconnoitering with a United States Cavalry Officer of the Nineteenth Century. These native scouts played a vital role in campaigns such as the hunt for Geronimo and others. The Scouts were active until 1947 when their last member retired from the Army. The statue is on the Heritage Trail of The Military Intelligence Museum, in the vicinity of the Buffalo Soldier Trail, Fort Huachuca Arizona.
